269.	Richard Cameron	Yes	1	The inverter board is practically symmetric. One half powers the top backlight; the other half powers the bottom. Both halves of my board failed over a period of three months: first the top part of the display went dim, second the bottom half went too. The monitor is now effectively dead. Apple charge more than the value of the monitor to repair, and won't supply the replacement board.
268.	Markus Owen	Yes	1	I can buy a larger (non-Apple) replacement display for the repair cost!
